

Computational design and thermodynamic stability of aperiodic crystals and their approximants

Nydia Roxana Varela-Rosales

Institute for Multiscale Simulation, University of Erlangen-Nürnberg

This work seeks to further advance the exploration of aperiodic crystals from a theoretical standpoint. We will introduce simulation models for 2D and 3D quasicrystals and their approximants and present systematic studies showing their thermodynamic stability.

